

Martin Luther

On October 31, 1517 Martin Luther nailed his 95 theses to the church door in Wittenberg. He wanted to debate the sale of indulgences. He wrote it in Latin, but a nameless visionary translated the theses into German, carried them to the printing press, and enabled their dispersion far and wide.